Dear Friend,

This booklet contains a thrilling story in word and picture. The Bible tells us repeatedly that when Jesus looked upon the people who were so needy spiritually and physically that, "He was moved with compassion." For the past fifteen years we have sought to follow the example of Jesus in showing compassion to the spiritually and physically needy of Korea.

From a small and humble beginning God has blessed the ministry of COMPASSION, INC., until today it stands as the largest work of its kind in any single country of the world. This has been possible because of the prayers and support of thousands throughout the United States of America, Canada and other countries.

I sincerely hope you might see the opportunities for Christian witness and service through the ministry of COMPASSION. More than 20,000 precious children in COMPASSION'S 171 orphanages, nearly 400 native evangelists, and an extensive Christian literature program are some of the avenues God has opened for this ministry.

As you read these pages, I trust that you will be "moved with compassion." The joy that will come to you will be your reward.

Cordially in Christ,

Henry L. Harvey
President

HISTORY AND BACKGROUND

This is the story of how God literally took a man at his word. On July 22, 1950, the man, Everett Swanson, promised God that he would obey His call to full time evangelistic service wherever He would lead in this "whole wide world."

Everett Swanson was a successful pastor, happy in his ministry in a well-known Chicago church, but God had laid an unresolved burden on his heart. As a committed Christian he continued to seek God's guidance, and on this day, after earnest prayer, he was moved to a decision which was to change the direction of his life. This was not a vague, indefinite promise that he made to God, to be acted on in some distant unspecific future. Rising from his knees, he reached for a card and wrote:

- (1) To obey God's call to full-time evangelistic work wherever He may lead in this whole wide world —
- (2) To resign my pastorate September 10, to take effect January 1, 1951 —
- (3) To trust God to provide for my every need as He has promised (Phil. 4:19) —
- (4) To trust God to take care of my family spiritually, physically and materially —
- (5) To redouble my efforts now to win others to Christ and to pray and work for revival.

Mr. Swanson resigned his pastorate and within a year God had sent him around the world to preach the gospel and win many to Christ in many foreign countries.

But God not only expanded his ministry of preaching. He enlarged his vision, burning deep into his heart a need that had never before challenged him. On his first six months' evangelistic tour he visited Korea, so recently the battleground for a bloody and devastating war. This war left millions dead — both soldiers and civilians — from bombings, exposure, sickness and starvation. It also left tens of thousands of orphans and widows. On this preaching mission, Everett Swanson saw these orphaned, homeless, ragged and starving children everywhere. His heart was touched, but he resumed his evangelistic work in the United States and Canada, doing nothing for the needs of these children. Perhaps it seemed a responsibility too staggering, too awesome for any man to contemplate.

The next year Mr. Swanson was invited back to Korea to conduct an evangelistic tour among the Korean armed forces. Again the unspeakable miseries of the helpless children crowded into his heart and mind. The challenge came with thunderous impact when a missionary said to him, "Now that you have seen the tremendous needs and opportunities in this land, what do you intend to do about them?" The question was inescapable because it was personal. Personal indeed, for Everett Swanson was just one man, without the resources of an organization which obviously would be required to contend with such an overwhelming need.

1952—Rev. Everett Swanson and the Rev. Kim Hyung Do, chief chaplain of the Ministry of National Defense, Korea. It was this Korean chaplain who invited Rev. Swanson for a tour of Korea's armed forces. "Had I not gone," said Rev. Swanson, "doubtless I would never have gotten into this work."

Nevertheless the question remained, searing its way into Mr. Swanson's heart until he promised God that, by His grace, he would do something about it.

So — under God — was born the Everett Swanson Evangelistic Association. God used the enlightened and inspired leadership of Everett Swanson to evolve the unique plan which would invite thousands of men and women, church and Sunday school groups, and others, to become sponsors and share in providing a home and caring for these many thousands of orphaned children.

The needs were urgent and could not be put off. Therefore, in order to meet them quickly, effectively and economically, Rev. Swanson proceeded, with the help of resident missionaries, to establish orphan homes and to assume support of many destitute orphanages started by big-hearted Korean Christians. He also raised funds to send out and support many native Korean Christian workers.

Today, COMPASSION maintains 171 orphanage Homes with more than 20,000 children being lovingly cared for, given educational opportunity and brought up in a Christian atmosphere

Caring for these children are hundreds of Korean staff members with many children of their own. Support is given for more than 400 native evangelists, bringing the total of persons assisted to nearly 24,000.

Behind are years of hard, unremitting, pioneering work. Ahead, an unfinished task because there are still many thousands of destitute children and many in the orphan homes for whom there are no sponsors. Behind—more than a decade of dependence on God; trusting Him for every need and seeing His unfailing hand on the work; the joy of knowing that this ministry has been used to bring thousands of boys and girls to accept Jesus Christ as Saviour. Ahead—the responsibility to reach untold thousands who have no place to go; the opportunity to evangelize and train a generation of youth who in turn will take up the challenge to bring the Word of Truth to their own people.

Since the beginning of the ministry of COMPASSION in Korea, the entire Orient has become one of the most serious trouble spots in the world. War, poverty, disease, and threat of aggression are rampant. The troubled face of Asia stares at the world—at Christian America—and pleads for help.

Korea is one of the most advanced outposts of democracy in the Orient. Yet, this young democracy has suffered more wars and acts of aggression throughout the centuries than any country in the world. These people know the agonies of war, broken families and broken hearts, poverty, and suffering. Yet, they are strong of heart and spirit. The seeds of Christianity have been planted, and thousands have found hope in the midst of despair through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

The message of the Saviour—the message of COMPASSION—has brought hope to many. We must not fail the remaining countless thousands who stand in need.

ORPHANAGE LIFE AND ACTIVITIES

In a very real sense every orphanage supported by COMPASSION is a real Christian Home. All staff members are active Korean Christians whose lives have been committed to Jesus Christ. Utilizing Korean personnel provides the most sympathetic understanding of the children, their backgrounds and problems. They are also better able to deal with government regulations, economic and social matters. In addition it provides gainful employment for many Koreans in a land where 30% of the working force is not gainfully employed.

Orphanage staffs consist of superintendent, business manager, cook, laundry lady, sewing lady, and mothering ladies. Many orphanages also have a full-time Bible instructor, where the superintendent is not specifically qualified.

Each day the children are taught the Word of God, they sing hymns and pray together. On Sunday they attend Bible school and churches of various evangelical denominations, and thus their lives are constantly surrounded by Christian influence. Because of the training in COMPASSION Homes, many of these children have prepared themselves for leadership in the Korean churches.

This man was a Buddhist village chief. After his conversion to Christ he burned his heathen idols, and many others who with him had found salvation joined in the ceremony. They had already built their own church for worship of the one true God.

From Buddha to Christ, literally!
These children were once cared for by a Buddhist lady in her large home. Her daughter who became a Christian witnessed to the children and took them to Sunday school. This caused some of the children to rebel at the teachings of Buddhism, and finally in desperation the lady gave her home and children to one of our orphanages as a branch orphanage. Ray Johnson of Life Messengers heard that we had no sponsors for the children. He appealed to his supporters, and enough funds came in to sponsor the children and buy garden land from the lady. The lady went to live in the temple and when the priests learned that she had given the home to the orphanage, they drove her out. This is not the end of the story. We have learned that the lady herself has turned from Buddhism to faith in Jesus Christ.

At left, is one of the early orphanage dormitories. Yes, it provided the barest of necessities. The new building at right, which replaced it, is truly, a comfortable, modern structure which more nearly approaches the facilities of home.

Many foreign missionaries, sympathetic with our total program, give valuable assistance, but without salary from COMPASSION.

COMPASSION staff personnel make periodic inspection visits to the field. A responsibility which has recently been pressed upon COMPASSION is the care of hundreds of orphans who have been turned out of unlicensed orphanages, closed by the government. These orphanages are below standard, wholly inadequate and poorly managed. The government has appealed to COMPASSION to assume this added burden.

In COMPASSION orphanages, there are thousands of children without sponsors hungrily awaiting the loving concern of faithful supporters. Many more await admission to these Homes until funds are available.

We have been told, and we share this information with deep humility, that COMPASSION'S over-all program — physical facilities, food, clothing, education, training — is unmatched anywhere in Korea. For this we are grateful to God, and to the thousands of sponsors whose hearts and pocketbooks He has touched to make such a program possible.

At the central office in Seoul, up to 750 letters per day are translated from Korean to English and vice versa. Careful records assure that children write regularly to their sponsors.

SPONSORS' LETTERS THAT SHOW COMPASSION. A few excerpts:

Beggar boy commended: "Your reports thrill us and we tell everybody about our orphans. They write such good letters. Our beggar boy in Bethany Home, who started from scratch just 3 or 4 years ago, won official commendation in school of 1000 students—second prize. Best of all he was saved a year ago. He wrote a good letter about it."

Borrowed money for blankets: "I'm sorry this is so long after receiving your letter, but we've been scraping along on low funds. Finally we decided to borrow some so we could send some money for blankets. Enclosed is a check for $90 for 30 blankets."

COMPASSION also provides substantial financial subsidy for two large hospitals where many children receive treatment. In addition, there are four schools for deaf mutes, three schools for the blind, and seven homes and schools for the uninfected children of lepers. There are four other schools where children with leprosy are maintained.

DOES WORK WITH ORPHANS PAY?

The young men shown on this page are some of the many living answers to that question. Excepting the young American soldier, all were brought up in our Homes. Early they were taught the Word of God which confronted them with the need of a personal Savior. Now their life purpose is to serve Him and their people with the message of salvation. Christian orphanage work is truly fruitful evangelism. Sponsors have a real share in these blessings. They have helped make possible this God-honored ministry.

Among those we have cared for during the years, thousands have attained responsible positions in the Korean society. Scores have become pastors and evangelists; hundreds have graduated from colleges and universities; and, thousands have become married and settled in useful occupations.

Master-Sergeant (U.S.A.) Elmer Rund gloriously won to Christ during Rev. Swanson's meetings with armed forces. He has since brought hundreds to Christ through his personal witnessing.

TO MAKE A CHILD'S HEART GLAD!

It is not difficult to visualize the joy which comes to the heart of a child — destitute, not knowing the comfort of a father or mother's love — when a gift comes from an overseas sponsor. Gifts from sponsors are not required, but when they come they do add up to unimagined delight. If your "adopted" child is old enough to write you will receive a heart-warming "thank you" note and a photo of your child with the gifts. If the child is too young to write, the note will come from one of our staff.

The pictures on this page convey the happiness which gifts have brought.

CONSECRATED EVANGELISTS

Since Rev. Swanson had a God-given vision for evangelism, it is quite natural that strong emphasis should be given to the gospel message in this land of Korea, in addition to the concentration given to the work among orphans.

As a consequence of this vision, COMPASSION has encouraged a large group of native evangelists to carry the salvation message to the rural areas of Korea, where otherwise it might never be heard. To continue, these evangelists too must have supporters. Some of them are married and have families. They are totally committed to the evangelistic message, and because of their consecrated work hundreds of Koreans, young and old, are being won to Christ. These pioneer evangelists preach in homes and small meeting places, pass out literature and hold Bible studies in an effort to reach men and women wherever they are to be found.

Thousands are won to Christ through the ministry of these nationals. They know the ways of their own people. They can live on a fraction of the amount required by Westerners — need little for travel expenses and never take a furlough.

COMPASSION is currently supporting more than 400 of these native evangelists. Many more are in need of help if they are to continue their work. Still others are prepared to go if we can find support for them.

In helping these evangelists, COMPASSION uses the sponsorship plan, patterned after that used for the orphan children. An interested and concerned individual or group agrees to underwrite assistance for a two-year period. Monthly assistance is usually $20. The sponsor receives his photo, story, and a monthly report of his activities.

Our evangelists are getting things done for God that can be done in no other way — getting to the heart of the people in the villages where they live. As a sponsor, you become a partner in this work of evangelism. The need is great — the time is short.

We invite you to write for our booklet, "Information About Supporting Your Own Native Korean Missionary," which gives full details of how you can be involved in a most worthwhile gospel effort.

In his work, this evangelist frequently walks 5 miles in a day, in bad weather, crossing streams, "but," he writes in a letter, "it is wonderful to bring the Good News to the dying."

KOREAN HEADQUARTERS STAFF

Our Korean staff is completely dedicated to the task of total evangelization of the Republic of Korea. Every staff member is a consecrated Christian. Most of them are also graduates of Korean colleges.

Rev. Robert Morgan represents COMPASSION'S widespread work in Korea. Together with Mrs. Morgan, also a missionary, he carries great responsibilities.

Miss Sally Swanson is a registered nurse whose knowledge and background are of invaluable assistance in raising the health standards of our orphanages.

A staff of dedicated Christian workers serves in COMPASSION'S Seoul office. The vast majority of these people are native Koreans with college educations. They are kept busy disbursing funds, supervising purchases, keeping records, translating, and performing countless other tasks. Their desire is to serve the Lord Jesus Christ in their daily lives.

HOME STAFF

COMPASSION's program was started as the Everett Swanson Evangelistic Association in the evangelist's northside Chicago home. As the work grew and the appeal for help was answered, it soon overflowed into every nook and cranny of the basement. Here, with rigid economy in mind, the Association operated for a number of years. But the day came when this basement space could no longer effectively cope with the demands.

The need for a suitable building was made the matter of much prayer, and in 1962 God answered this prayer in a wonderful way. Ground was obtained at 7774 Irving Park Road, Chicago, and on Monday, August 13, a new modern one-story office building was dedicated for the exclusive use of the Association. In 1963 our operation was expanded to include a Canadian office: P.O. Box 880, Blenheim, Ontario, Canada.

Offices are modern, equipped with efficient machines and accounting systems to properly take care of the great mass of detail involved. Correspondence is promptly answered and great effort is made to maintain a continuing relationship between sponsors and orphans, sponsors and evangelists, and the hundreds of inquiries which pour into headquarters.

All financial records are regularly audited by a Certified Public Accountant and are available on request.

Personnel of the headquarters staff are Christians who share the evangelistic purpose of COMPASSION. Staff devotions are held daily.

TAS OPENED IN VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Young people for useful lives, COMPASSION has built two new vocational centers to give the older boys and girls a trade.

The Compassion Farm School for boys is located some 25 miles northwest of Seoul. Boys from all COMPASSION orphanages are eligible to go there to learn agricultural techniques on the 275 acres of farmland donated by the government. In a pioneering move to give these orphans a chance for financial independence, students will be given an acre of land, sufficient to support a family, when they have cleared it and secured a successful crop. Even though hillside land, it would easily command a $1,000 an acre . . . a price that would make land ownership an impossible dream for most orphans.

The Yung Jin Vocational Center for girls is located just south of Seoul. A fine new concrete building provides housing, classrooms, offices and chapel. Here the girls are trained for one year in sewing, beauty culture, and typing (both Korean and English). These are skills much in demand in Korea and assure the girls of excellent job opportunities.

New brick administration building houses classrooms, dining hall, workshop, chapel and offices (less than one third is visible here). An ox to pull their cart and draw a plow provides the main power other than the boys' own labor in bringing the land under cultivation.

Boys are planting crops of melons, corn, potatoes, radishes, cabbage, peppers, barley and millet under the guidance of experienced farmers.

TO GOD BE THE GLORY
Doors of Opportunity Still Open —
if the funds are available

God's hand is unmistakably on the work of COMPASSION. It is to Him that we give all the glory. And even as we praise Him for His blessing, He shows us that there are countless pressing needs to be filled. Present homes and facilities require constant repair and oftentimes additions. We face constantly rising costs for both maintenance and construction.

Already committed to us are more than a thousand orphans who have no sponsors. They pray daily for a "Mommy" or "Daddy," "Big Brother" or "Big Sister" to "adopt" them. The heartache becomes all the more poignant as they realize that some of the children have sponsors who are supporting them, writing to them and showing them many evidences of love, and they do not.

Will you be one to covenant with God to make an orphan happy? You can provide loving care, shelter, food, clothing and medical care for just $10 a month. Perhaps you would like to share this privilege with someone; each of you sending $5 a month in joint sponsorship. Or maybe there is a group in your church which might be interested in an orphan as a missionary project.

We are enlarging two vocational schools — one for boys and one for girls — that must be supported. Many more of our young people will want to go on to college, seminary, Bible institute, nurses' training, etc. We must not stop short of making true Christian leaders of these children whom God has spared and saved. In addition to faithful sponsors, we need substantial gifts, and bequests to meet these great challenges.

This booklet has sought to present the workings of God in founding and maintaining this unique orphanage ministry of evangelism. If you have shared in it, you know the blessings which have rewarded your prayers and your giving. Now we invite countless others to join us in this unfinished task.

CITATION

In recognition and appreciation of his outstanding and meritorious service, I take great pleasure, in accordance with the powers delegated to me by the Constitution of the Republic of Korea, in awarding the PUBLIC WELFARE MEDAL TO REV. EVERETT F. SWANSON. Rev. Swanson, evangelist and social worker, first visited our country during the Korean conflict in 1951 to observe and promote missionary work here.

Deeply touched by the plight of thousands of children, widows and wounded veterans who were innocent victims of this terrible war, he immediately appealed for help to the people of the United States of America. He also toured the front lines to preach the gospel to both Korean and United Nations' servicemen, giving them comfort and stimulating their morale.

For ten years, Rev. Swanson's devoted and unceasing activity on behalf of the Korean people has never wavered. He has not only exerted every effort in the construction of numerous welfare institutions and churches throughout the country but has provided the scholarship for needy students.

Rev. Swanson's warm-hearted humanitarianism and dedicated interest in the spiritual, social and physical welfare of our people, especially for our children, have earned our abiding appreciation, and his unselfish ministrations as a true apostle will never be forgotten.
